

Jzero's JLMS Enterprise Learning Management System

Learning Management Systems (LMS): Launch courseware, register and enrol students on their courses, track learner progress and of course allow the training administrator to report on organisation wide training progress. However, most full-scale LMS also have a myriad of additional and complex features, many of which may be unnecessary for most learning solutions, but will be rolled in, and included in the price. But what if you don't need all of the complex features that an enterprise LMS includes?

JLMS from Jzero Solution is a lightweight, yet powerful alternative to a full scale enterprise LMS, which offers a stable, friendly work environment for your learners.

It does everything you need for a straight forward, out of the box solution, at an affordable price, and it will look like your own. JLMS is fully scalable, and allows you complete customisation capability to reflect your identity and help learners feel at home. All the reporting you need is there too, along with many features to ensure your learners always get to the content they need quickly and easily.

Flexible: JLMS can be deployed on a single site, or many sites, depending on where your learners are. It can also be deployed as a single instance or multi-instance at any one site giving you the ability to segregate different areas of your business and give them the autonomy of having their own area of the LMS. JLMS can be branded however you like, and localised into different languages if you have learners in more than one country. You can also adapt the navigation to suit the needs of your users and administrators.

Scalable: JLMS is fully scalable and will be an effective LMS catering for as little as one user to an entire organisation containing thousands of learners around the world. As your learning community grows, JLMS will grow with it.

Fully customisable: JLMS's look is fully customisable to reflect your company's brand and identity. The familiar 'look and feel' helps to make learners feel at home, makes them feel more at ease in the learning environment and encourages them to focus on the content without any unfamiliar branding to distract them.

JLMS can create a different look for different business units and locations across your whole organisation.

Compliant: JLMS is SCORM 1.2 compliant to RTE 3, and fully AICC compliant. This means that courses from other SCORM 1.2 and AICC compliant vendors can be deployed through JLMS.

For your learners:

Feature Rich: JLMS contains all the learner features you would expect from an LMS including personalised learning plans, advanced search, training reports, self registration, and online help and support as standard. It's easy to use and access, and because there are no complicated extras, learners can get to their content quickly and easily. We also provide a 'getting started' feature which gives some useful tips on how to use JLMS.

Knowledge Forum: The Knowledge Forum provides a central location where employees can post questions and receive answers, and allows information to be shared across an organisation. Staff can discuss areas of interest, and during these discussions, knowledge gets easily transferred from one part of the organisation to another.

Smart Login: Single sign on technology means that learners only have to log in once to access their learning. This can help to overcome some of the barriers new users sometimes have.

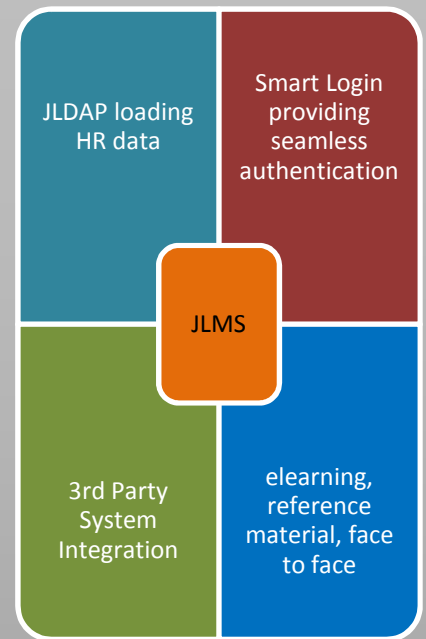

For your training administrators:

Customisation: JLMS's look and feel can be adapted to look like your own, and features such as the ability to manage administration rights, allocate content to users in a number of ways, and create and modify content catalogues, all make administration easier.

Reporting: JLMS provides access to over 20 pre-defined learner reports to help you manage your training information effectively and efficiently. You can report on usage and easily link to other systems to give you a complete view of your learning solution. Should your organisation have specific reporting needs, Jzero's Services team can work with you to create bespoke reports that meet your requirements.

Training Events Management System (TEMS): This function provides an easy-to-use scheduling system for learning activities such as classroom-based training, virtual classrooms and webinars, enabling you to fully integrate different learning styles into your learner's training plans. As well as managing training events the system includes facilities for managing venue information and supplier details, and in order to control and monitor attendance at training events the system includes an automated approval process and an attendance monitoring system.
